

I suppose there's a place
freedom lives.
Somewhere out there, within reach
of this moment or the next.
Do your work right, ask the right questions, open the right doors, and there she is. And once you know her she'll never leave you. Freedom, that is.

Always go

That is, for the longest time I did not even know
I was chasing her. Freedom, that is.
Funny how these unquestioned assumptions put us along the parade
— a lifetime, the twist of a wrist, the kick
of a kneeless leg, fabric and windburn and whatever bulletier music plays behind.

Dance, buddy.
We really like you so much better
when you dance.
